People

Tom Canty: dreamed of seeing a real prince, treated well/taught by Father Andrew

Edward of Wales: switches clothes with Tom because they are both curious about each others lives

Henry VIII: Father of Edward VI (Edward of Wales)

John Canty: very mean to Tom/Edward, kills Father Andrew and then runs to "The Ruffler"

Hugo: Hates Edward, especially after Edward beats him in a duel. He tries to humiliate him but making a fake wound but ends up framing him for a crime

Prissy & Margery: young girls who believed Edward was the king

Bet & Nan: Tom's sisters who were always nice to him

The Hermit: Believed Edward was the true king, then tried to kill him

Miles Hendon: Edwards rescuer, convinces Edward that God allows everything in his time and to not fight the constable. Gets denied by his brother Hugh so his brother can keep his property. Becomes an earl after taking Edwards lashes and goes to London to see Humphrey Marlow

Blake Andrews: Faithful servant of Miles, brings them food and information when they are in prison

Lady Edith: Finally is able to marry Miles

Lord Hertford: Edwards's uncle and protector.

Lord St. John: commits treason when he questions if Tom is truly the prince

When Tom is in the palace: has to go along with the lie because the king orders him to not deny he's a prince. He sets all the cases before him free because of lack of evidence. His first act is to free the Duke of Norfolk. He ends up forgetting his life and doesn't like thinking about the other people but he wants to escape when he sees his mother. Tom becomes the King's Ward at the end and he is in charge of Christ's Church.

When Edward is on the streets: Believes the hermit is safe because he's "praying" but he has a skull on a book and believes that he is an archangel. Flees the farmhouse because John Canty and Hugo show up. Edward learns about the unjust English laws. Gets blamed for stealing a pig, but the value of the pig is lowered so he doesn't hang. The judge is fair and compassionate. Watches 2 women get burned at the stake for being Baptist. Tom has to remind Edward where the seal is to prove he is the real king because he put in a.....
